

Sydney African Youth Casework with AYI Centres

Casework with African Youth by Service Referral

Our organisation provides a service where we encourage and take referrals from other organisations and services across NSW.

If you know of a young African person between 12-20 living anywhere in the broader Sydney region that could do with some free extra guidance, please contact us so that our experienced African youth coordinator, Bishop, can engage this young person.

AYI Centres is a registered not-for-profit organisation that was set up in 2016 here in Australia as an international organisation. AYI Centre began running its Sydney base youth service in 2018. Our Sydney Project is fully managed by a Board of professional African-Australians with interest in the welfare and issues affecting all African-Australians. As such, AYI Centres is unique in being the first and only African focused community service in NSW.

Our Youth Coordinator Bishop Laryea has 20 years of youth and community development experience. Once he received a referral from your service/ organisation, he will meet with the young person and provide a professional and tailored youth case management for the young African person or group. He will then match each young person to one of AYI Centre's mentors if the need arises. Bishop will help the young person holistically by finding out what he/she needs. This will involve providing a long term or short-term case management approach to assist the young person or group of young people in reaching their full potential.

Bishop has managed various Youth Centres across Sydney all of which has flourished under his leadership. He currently manages a Community Centre for the City of Sydney Council. If you have a young African person that you believe can do with assistance from a qualified and experience youth worker who will provide a quality outcome to a young African person, then definitely contact him.

Our list of registered mentors that support Bishop are also well trained and have undergone working with children check and Police Checks.
